

About two thirds of the leakage penalty is leakage; the rest is the test set

Pale: the fall a model that never trains shows on the same change of test set, so it cannot be leakage. Solid: what is left, and attributable. A control rather than a proof - it assumes the composition effect is additive and similar across models.

